COME HOLY SPIRIT

In the time between the feast of the Ascension and Pentecost Sunday, we pray earnestly that the whole Church and every Christian, indeed the whole world, will be blessed with a fresh outpouring of the Holy Spirit. We remember the beautiful prayer of Pope John XXIII asking God to give the Church the gift of a New Pentecost. I think this is a wonderful prayer that we can make our own.

The Lord Jesus told his disciples it was necessary for him to return to the Father because then he would send the Holy Spirit. In other words, we are very blessed to live in the time of the Holy Spirit because this is how we now experience the presence, the action and the power of God working for us and in us. It is the Spirit that enlightens us with the truth that sets us free; it is the Spirit that is active in the sacraments cleansing, healing, nourishing and transforming us. It is the Spirit that gathers us into the unity of the Body of Christ and enables us to love one another as brothers and sisters.

We are the people of the Spirit. It is the Spirit that gives us the wisdom and courage to speak God's truth, to counter evil and injustice, to defend the weak and the vulnerable, to promote unity, goodness, and justice. It is the Spirit that makes us God's instruments of peace in a divided world.

Come Holy Spirit, make us one and fill us with all we need to fulfil our mission as the missionary disciples of Jesus in the world.
