This gift [of the Eucharist] has such a likeness to the giver that the one giving himself is and is held completely in it. So he says, Do this in remembrance of me. And the Apostle says, As often as you eat this bread and drink this chalice, you proclaim the death of the Lord until he comes. For this reason, this gift is also called a memorial of the going of the Lord, because in it there is a remembrance and re-presentation of the Lord.... Now, there are three things which this sacrament causes to be remembered: namely, the sweetest charity, with which he who is received in this sacrament laid down his life for us and gave himself to us in this sacrament; the most bitter Passion, which he endured for us; and his passing forth from this world to the Father, through which he made an entry for us into heaven and accomplished our reconciliation with the Father.

About the first it is said... His remembrance shall be sweet as honey in every mouth, and as music at a banquet of wine (Si 49:1). For this melody is music in jubilation of heart, and the wine of the mouth for returning love, [wine] both inflaming with the affection of love and drawing the beloved to us in the embrace of intimate communion, which embrace has two arms, since he suffered for us out of love, and out of love for us gave himself in the sacrament....

It is also a memorial of the most bitter Passion, which he endured for us.... Keep me in remembrance, and let us decide together, tell if you have anything to justify yourself (Is 43:26). As if to say, compare your sufferings in sorrow and your poverty and bitterness to mine, and consider me, God, owing nothing to anyone, in comparison to you, man, owing all compassion, and then tell if you have anything which can compare, and you will see that nothing is left to you but to love and give thanks....

It is finally a memorial of the going forth of the Lord who says, If not, I would have told you, because I go to prepare a place for you. And so we celebrate the same sacrifice which he offered for us, since Jesus entered through his blood into the holy place for us, and we have entrance with him....

Therefore, first, the memorial applies to love. Second, it builds up the truth of faith. Then third, it wonderfully raises us to the firmness of hope. Saint Albert the Great
