Dear Brothers and Sisters, Dear Friends,

We know that Paris is one of the dioceses of France, and that each particular Church reflects the face of Christ in its own way: that Pope Leo chose to come here, as part of his journey, honours and commits us. It is up to us now to work with great enthusiasm to create the conditions for a true encounter that transcends our own borders. In Paris, a capital and a global city, many of the realities are concentrated that are present in the Church in France: a Church that prays, gathers in fellowship, lives the Sacraments, and gives thanks to the Lord at every moment; a Church of witness, in constant dialogue with the world; a Church that intervenes tirelessly in the debates that permeate our secularized society; a Church that never ceases to care for the smallest and most vulnerable. In Paris, Pope Leo XIV will encounter a Church capable of generating original thought, based on prayer, on how to be increasingly missionary in its actions: welcoming, credible, attentive and close to all.

In the joy that fills us, I assure you of my prayers for each one of you.

+Laurent Ulrich,
Archbishop of Paris
